Preamble

A vital impulse is expressing itself throughout this country toward the awakening of a higher understanding and more general appreciation of the recreative resources afforded by good music. This impulse is being earnestly fostered by all who realize that, if rightly developed, it can result in giving to America a more abundant aesthetic life and in creating a national American music which will embody and express the spirit of the country.

For the furthering of this objective the BOSTON CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC is eminently qualified through the completeness of its curricula (covering all subjects of professional musical study) and by the liberality of its policy of admission. It enjoins no specific academic requirements; it makes no stipulation of prerequisite musical accomplishment; it recognizes no discrimination of race or faith.

As our American nation has gained its marvellous vitality and growth through the ready assimilation of all who have come from far or near, seeking this haven of liberty and unbridled opportunity, so the national music of America must properly be an outgrowth and expression of the various characteristics of its composite population. This cannot be achieved, however, so long as our talented musicians are sent for study to foreign countries, with whose traditions and influence they inevitably become imbued. Great and noble though those countries are, whose undying works have become a world's heritage, yet they are not America, and while America is dependent upon them, no truly American music can be created. It must be indigenous in its conception, in its inspiration, in its color. But if, from the representatives of the whole world, assembled into this one great cosmopolitan nation, all latent talent is gratefully sought and is trained in this country by efficient instructors, a wonderful American music will soon arise, which, untrammelled by traditions of race or of creed, will become the true expression of the soul of a unified humanity.

To do whatever it can toward accomplishing this ideal, the BOSTON CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC is reverently dedicated.

Agide Marchia, Director.

HISTORY OF MUSIC

ADMISSION

The year at the BOSTON CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC is divided into three Sessions (as shown by the Calendar, second page of cover), but there are no formalities of entrance and a student may enroll at any time. It is, of course, always advisable for one who wishes to enter any of the classes to register for the first meeting of a Session.

An initial Registration fee of $2 is charged to all students.

INSTRUCTION

Instruction in Composition, Voice Culture, and all Instrumental Courses is given by private lessons only, since this is held to be the proper method for achieving thorough and rapid progress. In these subjects, classes in Pianoforte and Violin Technique, Stringed Instrument Ensemble, Choral Training, and Orchestral Training are given free of charge, as supplementary instruction. In other subjects both individual and class instruction is offered.

REGULAR and SPECIAL STUDENTS

Students are classified as Regular or Special.

A Regular student is one who pursues any course with the purpose of obtaining a diploma; to be classified as Regular, a student must take, in addition to lessons in his principal subject, all the complementary requirements of his course, in proper sequence. One who has previously studied any complementary subject of a course may receive full credit upon passing the examination in accordance with the regulations. (See "Examinations," page 7.)

A Special student, not being an aspirant for a diploma, may elect any subject for which he is qualified; the minimum enrollment during the regular school year being for a term of ten weekly lessons.

SUMMER SESSION

The Summer Session offers an opportunity, if desired, for students to continue their studies uninterruptedly through the year, or for others who wish to obtain instruction during the summer months.

EVENING INSTRUCTION

Evening Lessons with the regular Faculty members are available throughout the entire year.

REGULATIONS

TUITION

All tuition charges must be paid in advance at the beginning of each term of ten weeks. Students entering at the middle of a term must pay for the unexpired balance of that term and for the full term following.

Lessons lost by absence must be paid for and will be made up by the instructor, provided that notice is received in the Office twenty-four hours previous to the appointment. In case of prolonged absence, due to illness or other emergency, a balance of tuition, upon due notice to the Office, will be held to the student's credit (for private lessons only) until the end of the Session.

Students are required to make up lessons lost by an instructor's absence, provided the student is notified in advance, or to accept a substitute instructor for the lesson.

A student who is late for a lesson is entitled only to the balance of the appointment time.

No money paid for tuition will be refunded.

EXAMINATIONS

Annual Examinations are given during the last two weeks of the Second Session for the purpose of classifying Regular students in all their respective subjects and for all students enrolled in Theoretical subjects. No one is eligible for free Annual Examination as a candidate for a Certificate or Diploma in any subject in which he has not been enrolled for the entire Session previous to the examination. In the History of Music the Annual Examination will be given free only to those who have attended at least twelve lectures of the series.

A student who fails to qualify for or to pass an Annual Examination is given an opportunity in September to take a Reparatory Examination, for which a written application must be filed in the Office before September first.

Semestral Examinations are given primarily for those who, through extraordinary ability and diligence, have covered the work of an entire Grade in the First Session.

Students who are in arrears in any payments due the Conservatory are not admitted to examinations.

Special students enrolled for private instruction are given informal examinations by their respective instructors at the end of the regular School Year.

DIPLOMAS and CERTIFICATES

A Diploma is awarded to a student who has met all the requirements specified in the outline of his principal subject. Written application for the Diploma Examinations must be filed in the Office and a Diploma fee of ten dollars paid not later than May fifteenth. The admission of a student to the Diploma Examination in his principal subject is conditional upon his satisfactory completion of all the complementary requirements of his course. The Diploma fee will be refunded in case of failure to pass any of the examinations.

A Diploma with "Honors" is awarded to a student whose mark is 100% for the examination in his principal subject.

Certificates are given free to all students of the Conservatory for the completion of the courses in Solfeggio, Theory, Harmony, and the History of Music.

Anyone may take Diploma Examinations in all the required subjects of a course in conformity with the Regulations, upon the advance payment of ten dollars for the examination in each subject not completed at the Conservatory.

GENERAL INFORMATION

It is the aim of the Boston Conservatory of Music to serve the interest of all students, as individuals, and to give them the benefit of personal advice and friendly assistance wherever possible.

RESIDENCE

Young women are advised to communicate directly with any of the following dormitories for girls, where board and room are obtainable at rates ranging from $6.50 to $20 per week:

(1) The Franklin Square House, 11 E. Newton St.

(2) The Students' House, 96 The Fenway.

(Especially for girls under 20).

The Students' Union, 81 St. Stephen St.

The Registrar also has a list of carefully selected private homes where men or women may find suitable accommodations.

Students under twenty-one years old who live out of town may secure at the local railroad stations applications for "Pupils' Tickets" which, when signed by the Director of the Conservatory, entitle the holder to special rates.

LIBRARY

The Students' Library contains reference books on musical subjects, together with valuable works on voice, pianoforte, and orchestral instruments.

Students also have the privilege of drawing books from the Boston Public Library.

MUSIC and OTHER SUPPLIES

A selected assortment of vocal and instrumental music, note-books, and other supplies are kept on sale for the convenience of instructors and students.

PRACTICE PRIVILEGES

Opportunities for free practice are accorded Regular students, so far as accommodations permit. An exception is necessarily made in the case of Organ practice, for which there is a charge of twenty-five cents per hour.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Scholarships for free instruction are awarded to students of the Conservatory who have shown evidence of exceptional ability and application, and are unable to pay the costs of tuition. A scholarship awarded to any student is continued to the end of his course, provided he shows that he is availing himself to the full measure of its advantages. By the acceptance of scholarship assistance on the part of a student, it is assumed that he intends to complete his course for a Diploma at the Conservatory.

Two scholarships, each for one year's full tuition, are offered to any close relative (brother, sister, son, or daughter) of a member of the Boston Conservatory (Gamma) Chapter of the Kappa Gamma Psi Fraternity.

PRIZES

The following prize offers are open to Regular students of the Conservatory, enrolled for the entire School Year 1924-1925.

Through the generosity of the Henry F. Miller & Sons Piano Co., one of their beautiful-toned Lyric Grand Pianos (value $1,350) will be awarded in the spring of 1925 to the Regular student of the Pianoforte course who is adjudged the winner in a public contest to be held in May. The pieces to be presented for the competition will be announced in January. Three eminent musicians, in no way affiliated with either the Henry F. Miller Co. or the Conservatory, will act as judges.

Mr. Clark Powers, the renowned Violin-maker, has offered one of his celebrated "Equipoise" violins as a prize to be competed for by Regular students of the Violin course for the year 1924-1925. The award will be determined by a public contest in the spring, to be presided over by three impartial judges. The Violin, made on the "Equipoise" principle, which has been proclaimed "the acme of scientific art in violin-making," will be of specially selected wood and valued at $500. It will be placed on exhibition in the Conservatory at the opening of the Fall Session.

RECITALS and CONCERTS

At frequent intervals during the regular school year, Recitals are given by students representing the various courses, or by members of the Faculty.

Through the courtesy of the Management of the Symphony Hall Pops, Thursday, May 29, was assigned as the Annual Boston Conservatory of Music Night. Mr. Jacchia, the Conductor of the Pop Concerts, arranged a program of special interest to students of the Conservatory. For one number of the program, Miss Iride Pilla, '24, sang the aria, "Tacea la notte placida," from Verdi's "Il Trovatore."

On Monday evening, February 25, 1924, Miss Irma Seydel gave a Recital for the Scholarship Fund of the Conservatory. Miss Seydel, assisted by Miss Wilhelmina Wagner, Accompanist, presented the following program:

I
